In re the way in which the Petrie Creek Hotel is carried on

Petrie Creek - Gympie Road -

11/4/89
Police

to the Hon. the Colonial Secretary Sir, I wish to call your attention to the way the Petrie Creek Hotel is carried on - it seems to be the roughest place on the road - and nearly any time you go there Sunday or weekday there is a crowd of Drunken men about and as they keep the Police there families often have to go there - but no Sunday passes but what there are more or less drunk there black as well as white men and they are not frightened to

- Pretymen Index - For information about the origins of Tasmanian place names.
- Wayn Index - An index to colonial Tasmanian Government records and colonial newspapers compiled by Amelia Lucy Wayn during the period from the 1920s to 1940s.

- Tasmanian Index \(to Newspapers and Journals\) 1994-
- Whitfeld Index - A selective index of personal names found in Tasmanian colonial newspapers, 1816-1900. There are a few entries for the years after 1900. The main emphasis is on the names of members of early settler and eminent families, though the scope is sometimes wider. The main data recorded are for births, deaths and marriages, wills and bequests, land grants and property sales. There is a small subsection of topical and geographic subject entries. Mostly applicable to Northern Tasmania.
- Artists Index - An index of Tasmanian visual artists (not including craftspeople) represented in one-person and group exhibitions of which catalogues (some of which remain uncatalogued) are held in the TAHO collection.

Dead Reckoning: a guide to family history research in WA

If you are a novice family historian just starting out tracing your family tree or an experienced genealogy researcher looking for whatever happen to the elusive great uncle. Dead Reckoning is your handbook to family history research in Western Australia.

Dead Reckoning: how to find your way through the Genealogical Jungle of Western Australia (compiled by Steve Howell) was first published in 1997. It was an update of the 1983 Library Board of Western Australia publication: Tracing your ancestors: a guide to genealogical sources in the J.S. Battye Library of West Australian History.

Since 1997, the Battye Library and the State Records Office have received new material of interest to anyone undertaking genealogical and biographical research. As well, many relevant internet resources have been developed. Following a grant from the Sholl Bequest (administered by the Friends of Battye Library Inc.), it was decided to revise and publish the book online, so it can be regularly updated as appropriate resources and material are found.

Sands Directory of Sydney

Sands Sydney Directory was published annually from 1859 to 1932. The lists of householder and business names it contains have become a fundamental source for research into Sydney history, especially family history. We have had the complete Sands volumes for three sample years (1868, 1888, 1918) digitised from the fiche, and they are presented here for public access and comment.

Planning Street Cards

The Planning Street Cards provide information about historical buildings and development applications from about 1908 to the 1990s.

The street cards show all the applications submitted to the Council, whether or not the original files and plans exist. To see if the records are actually available you will have to check Archives Investigator or (for post-1987 records) ask the archivists.

Assessment Books

The Assessment Books record details of ownership, occupation, construction, and value for property in the City of Sydney between 1845 and 1948. They provide valuable information for family and property history which is not available from any other source.

Historical Atlas of Sydney

The Historical Atlas provides access to maps of the City of Sydney from different periods of the City's history. The maps can be downloaded as PDF files, and panned and zoomed to pick up smaller areas and close-up details.

Conclusion

- ◆ Not all archives are online
- ◆ What is digitised online is only the tip, increasing
- ◆ How much more is waiting in archives to be discovered
- ◆ Online catalogues rarely at detailed item level
- ◆ Still need research trips to archives and time to search the records
- ◆ Any number of treasures still waiting to be discovered
