Indexes

Indexes provide a quick and easy way to locate Queensland State Archives records relating to people.

Entries in the indexes provide people's names in alphabetical order, and include the Queensland State Archives references. The introductory section of each index provides background details and information on how to use the index.

Copies of individual entries can be ordered, with details of costs provided on individual index pages. These prices apply to website and postal orders only. All prices are in Australian dollars, and include GST, postage and handling.

Please note, Adobe Reader is required to open and print these Portable Document Format (PDF) index files and is free to download from the Adobe website.

If you have difficulty accessing PDF files from this website please contact us.

Index categories

Indexes have been grouped under the following categories:

- Convict / prisoner
- Courts
- Hospital / sanitoria
- Immigration
- Indigenous
- Lands
- Professions
- Orphanage and reformatories
- Other

Current indexing projects

Queensland State Archives volunteers are currently compiling the following indexes. Each completed index may cover more than one series of records and include the Queensland State Archives references:

- Brisbane Hospital Registers of Deaths 1933-1945
- Immigration 1875-1917 (various records)
- Inquests 1893 -1926
- Inquests (Preliminary Enquiries) 1931-1945
- Justice of the Peace Oaths 1911-1920
- Land Orders 1862-1878
- Lands records (various) 1848-1900
- Naturalisations Part 2 – 1858-1941
- Runs Rents (Treasury/Lands) 1860-1911

Background

The files were created as a result of the Trustee Act of 1889, but they include trusts still being administered from an earlier period. The files came from the ecclesiastical jurisdiction of the Southern district of the Supreme Court of Queensland, with the trusts all appearing to have been set up under the provisions of a will.

Papers include information about land ownership, rental properties, relatives, disbursement of funds, details of children, school fees and employees and wages lists. The date and place of death are given in the records if stated.

Some of the files extend to hundreds of pages and at least one covers a period of more than 25 years.

Please note: The first 77 trustee file numbers were originally registered as equity file numbers (No.476 to 694 with gaps) and cover the period 1889-1891. The index to equity files (QSA Item ID92705) does not, however, record the re-registering of the files under the Trustee file numbers.

Explanatory notes

- check all possible spelling variants
- some given names are abbreviated as they appear in the original record
- Mc and Mac names are interfiled
- - or a blank cell indicates that there is no information in the original
- names are not indexed with an apostrophe, e.g. O DWYER

German immigration

Info Guide 3.32

German land boundaries have changed dramatically over the centuries. The Germany we know today covers a vastly different area to that of the German Empire in 1871, parts of which came under the jurisdiction of Austrian, Danish, French, Polish, or Russian authorities at various periods.

For Australian family historians tracing early birth, death and marriage information in the former German States this presents particular challenges, not least of which are:

- requesting genealogical information in a foreign language
- tracking place name changes

The State Library of Queensland holds a number of publications that can assist with these issues and German genealogy in general, including:

- Ancestors in German archives: a guide to family history sources (FAMHIS 929.343 2004). A comprehensive guide to the location and holdings of national, state, local and non-government archives in Germany
- Atlas of the German Empire, 1892 (ATLAS 912.43 1989). Shows political and administrative divisions of the period
- German genealogical research / George K. Schweitzer. (G 929.1072 1992) Written from an American perspective but contains useful lists of German archival repositories, maps, and sample letters in German to use when requesting genealogical information.
- Namensänderungen ehemals preußischer Gemeinde von 1850 bis 1942 / Fritz Verdenhalven (FAMHIS 914.3 1971). This is a German language key to name changes in former Prussian communities 1850-1942
- In-house German place names index for places in countries that are no longer part of Germany that includes original and modern names. Ask at Desk in Micrographics area on level 3.

Check the One Search online catalogue for additional titles. http://onesearch.slq.qld.gov.au/

What online resources are available for German genealogical research?

Links to German family history resources on the Internet may be found at www.cyndislist.com. Check the alphabetical index under 'G' for Germany.

FamilySearch (LDS) at https://www.familysearch.org/ provides extensive assistance. They have created a wiki for their various guides and useful information on many subjects. To access what's available click on 'Learn' then type in "Germany" or go to https://wiki.familysearch.org/en/Germany.

September 2014, Vol 14, No 9

Coming up on October 4th is our next seminar Inmates: Asylums, Prisons and Hospitals, where Shauna Hicks and Pauleen Cass will discuss records about the elderly, infirm and prisoners, and those who looked after them. This will widen the range of resources for us to seek our families within, as well as explain the society in which our ancestors lived. Shauna will be familiar to many of us as a regular speaker at our events. Pauleen is Queensland-born, now a Darwin resident, a well known genealogy blogger, author and presenter. See below for more information or go here.

Don't forget, if you haven't yet renewed your QFHS membership, with its many benefits such as receiving Snippets, access to our resources, and discounts on seminars. It's now very easy to do so with direct credit from your bank account. Details here, remember to include your membership number!

The Award for Services to Family History is presented annually to QFHS members who have made a significant contribution to family history. The award ceremony takes place at the November Members' Meeting. If you would like to nominate a fellow member

Catholic Parishes

| Print |

GSQ has been filming and indexing Catholic Parish records for the Archdiocese of Brisbane in South East Queensland since 1993 (see map of Brisbane Archdiocese).

Baptisms, marriages and burial records for over 40 parishes have been filmed, commencing with older parishes; such as St. Stephen's Cathedral from 1844, St. Mary's, Ipswich from 1849, St. Patrick's, Fortitude Valley from 1895 and St. Brigid's, Red Hill from 1892. Parishes north to Maryborough, west to Laidley and south to the Gold Coast have been filmed and indexed. However, not all parish records in the Brisbane Archdiocese have been filmed and indexed.

Microfiche copies of the indexes are available for sale from our online shop. Or, consult the List of Microfiche Parish Records and complete the Order Form for

Grave location search

Brisbane City Council maintains records of people buried or cremated at (interments) our cemeteries and crematoriums.

Use our grave location search to find people interred prior to 19 September 2012. For information on burials or cremations after this date, phone Brisbane City Cemeteries and Crematoria on 07 3407 8128.

Unfortunately, not all records are complete because Council only gained full control of Brisbane's public cemeteries in July 1930. Before that time, a number of trusts established under Queensland law managed these cemeteries.

Moreton Bay Region Cemeteries Database

Moreton Bay Regional Council maintains records of people interred in a number of cemeteries, including several historical cemeteries that are no longer used for burials.

Please be aware that historical burial records are often incomplete, as early records are less comprehensive and in most instances do not provide the same level of detail. Moreton Bay Regional council expressly disclaims all and any liability and responsibility for reliance upon this information. Attention is drawn to the Cemeteries Database Disclaimer.

Every effort has been made to ensure the accuracy of these records, but if you find a discrepancy please contact Council using the online Cemetery Records Information Amendment Request.

My indexes to original records at Queensland State Archives

- Mental asylum records. Look here for people who 'vanished', patients with depression, head injury, epilepsy, alcoholism etc, and details of their relatives. Indexes to various series (eg, Public Curator insanity files; Supreme Court insanity files; Colonial Secretary's in-letters; Annual Reports; casebooks).
- Hospital admission registers. Often more accurate and more useful than certificates. Sometimes the only surviving source of immigration details. Lots of biographical data for local, interstate and overseas folk.
- Old age pension records. Includes applicants who were rejected (under age or other reasons), and many people not on electoral rolls.
- Illegitimate children whose father is named in an archival source (but not the birth certificate).
- Police Gazettes. Friends and relatives sought, missing persons, alleged offenders, prisoners, wife/child/ship deserters, victims of crime, etc. Many Police Gazette notices include a detailed physical description or a photograph.
- Police station watchhouse records. People arrested and victims of crime (including children).
- Prison records. Many registers give ship of arrival, physical description etc.
- Maintenance payments to deserted wives, children, illegitimate children.
- Undertakings re fares. Premier's Department files re travel by rail or ship (mainly interstate but some international).
- Women granted protection orders, 1888-1904.
- Dentists and dental apprentices. Includes women.
- Nurses and masseurs (male & female).
- Cooktown residents who signed a petition in 1874. The original document has their signatures.
- Cooktown Boys' School admission register.
- 'Interim Index'. Selected names from many sources (Court records, Police correspondence, Grammar School records, etc.)

Welcome to Queensland Places

This is a website containing all the places in Queensland, including cities, suburbs, towns and villages, that have now or once had a population over 500. (See ABOUT for further information on inclusion criteria, sources, images and copyright.)

You can SEARCH this site using the yellow search box above or BROWSE A-Z or select RANDOM PAGE. You can move back and forward alphabetically through the A-Z headwords using the green arrows at the top of each article. Click on an image to enlarge. Slides will play as a slide show, and you can move through these and the photo galleries using the back and forward arrows on each image.

Because some places are clustered together under BROWSE A-Z we recommend using the SEARCH facility. This will search all instances of the place name in the database, as well as all images and captions. If you do not find the place you are after, you will need to check the spelling or refer to the inclusion criteria in ABOUT. You can also SEARCH the database by any keyword or name. Any errors are notifiable via the CONTACT option to the editors.

Toombul

Toorbul, a seaside township facing Pumicestone Channel and Bribie Island, is 50 km north of central Brisbane. It is thought that the name resembles that of an Aboriginal clan in the area.

The township lies between the mouths of Elimbah and Ningi Creeks. Toorbul Point, a raised headland south of Ningi Creek, is now known as Sandstone Point, where the Bribie Island bridge is built.

Toorbul and Pumicestone Channel had excellent oyster beds which supported a substantial pre-colonial Aboriginal population. There is a bora ring off Bestmann Road, Sandstone Point.

Location

Toorbul was surveyed in 1868, and farms were taken up soon afterwards. It continued as a rural community until the 1940s.

Toorbul Point and Bribie Island were military/defence areas during World War II, with Toorbul being used for amphibious and commando training. Both Australian and American personnel were involved, and Toorbul Point eventually became known as 7th Amphibious Training Centre under US Naval command. With the departure of military personnel, Toorbul became known as the causeway crossing point to Bribie Island, since bypassed by the bridge at Sandstone Point. The urbanisation of Bribie Island has not been strongly reflected in Toorbul.

Toorbul has numerous retiree residents, some with links to the Bribie Island RSL. There are a caravan park, a hotel, a hall and a local store. A foreshore reserve along Pumicestone Channel has several boat ramps. Census populations have been:
