ALBERTLAND HERITAGE CENTRE - MEMORIAL PARK, WELLSFORD

In the early 1860's William Rawson Brame had a vision to establish a classless, nonconformist society in New Zealand.

On May 29th 1862 the migrant ships "Matilda Wattenbach" and "Hanover" departed from the London Docks bound for the Albertland Settlement in New Zealand with the first of over 3000 settlers.

The Albertland Story chronicles their trials and tribulations.

The Heritage Centre at the Albertland and Districts Museum in Wellsford houses extensive records, memorabilia, artifacts, and other items relating to Albertland from the 1860's.

Georgia: Ancha Gospel, XII-XIII century

The Ancha Gospel is one of the unique manuscripts preserved at the National Archives of Georgia. The document was created at a time when Georgian chasing and art reached their peak. During that period different art forms were developed and educational centers were opened, where mainly literature was rewritten and translated from different languages into Georgian.

Our History

Auckland Grammar School was originally endowed by the Governor of New Zealand, Sir George Grey, in 1850. Grey made a series of land grants to set up and maintain a grammar school in Auckland that was to be "for the education of all New Zealanders".

In 1869, the School was officially opened in Howe Street with 68 boys on the roll by the Duke of Edinburgh. During the Depression of the 1880s, girls from the Girls' High School joined the Auckland College and Grammar School as it was then known, mainly out of economic necessity.

In 1899, the School once again became known as Auckland Grammar School, but girls remained on the roll through until 1909.

Having made several moves throughout its first four decades, the School's current Mountain Road site was acquired between 1911 and 1913. During the intervening years of the First World War (1914-1918), Grammar embarked upon an ambitious and far-sighted building programme, which included the Spanish Mission style main building that is today listed with the New Zealand Historic Places Trust.

Hocken's archives

From 18th century recipe books to 21st century digital files, the Hocken's archives collection is the largest held by a New Zealand University. The archives tell stories of early Dunedin giving first hand insights into events, people and places significant in Otago's history.

- Search for archives on Hākena.
- See our guide for help with searching Hākena.

Collection strengths:

- Literary and personal research papers
- Otago/Southland Anglican and Methodist Church records
- School records from the Otago Education Board area
- Otago/Dunedin based business records
- Community, club and sporting group records
- Early European settlement documents

Papers collected by Dr Hocken form the foundation of the collection. Many organisations, families and individuals have entrusted their papers, including James K Baxter, Janet Frame, Charles Brasch, Colin McCahon, Michael Cullen, the RSA, the Plunket Society and Hallensteins Ltd. The collections also include important national documents like records of the New Zealand Alpine Club.

Dear Lew and Sharmaine, Thank you both for your replies. This is the same man but I don't know whether he was the father of JOHN LILLEY PEARCE or not. Signs point to it not being him, but my JOHN LILLEY PEARCE is proving to be elusive. SAMUEL PYERS and family did live down river from JAMES CULLEN and family at New Norfolk - JAMES CULLEN's daughter, ELIZABETH married JOHN LILLEY PEARCE. SAMUEL PYERS'S daughter, MARY, married GEORGE RAYNER, son of WILLIAM RAYNER and brother of WILLIAM RAYNER JR.
