Introduction

- Why it isn't all online
  - Only the tip of a very big iceberg
- Using Internet to find information – online indexes, transcripts, digitised records
- Using Libraries and Archives more effectively
- Don't forget local resources!

Why It Isn't All Online

- ▶ Still print publications in libraries
- ▶ Still manuscript/archival records in archives
- ▶ Information in microform or CD formats
- ▶ Might be handwritten card indexes
- ▶ Cost to digitise – money & time
- ▶ Only the most popular items online

Hazards of Not Getting the Whole Story

- Some people only use the indexes – don't get the document/certificate
- Index is bare info only – more details are on the original record
- Can make the difference between researching the wrong person/family or creating brickwalls

Using Internet To Locate Info Not Online

- Online catalogues to libraries/archives
- Guides to library holdings
- Fact sheets/guides on archival records
- All assist in finding out what is there that might be relevant to your research
- Some offer copying services

Using Libraries More Effectively

- Online catalogues
- Ask a librarian services
- Inter library loans
  - Books, articles, chapters
  - Obtain photocopies or digital documents

Oral History and Sound

The Oral History and Sound collection is part of the Alexander Turnbull Library.

There are more than 10,000 recordings in the collection. Recordings include interviews with people from throughout New Zealand and the Pacific, of various ethnicities, iwi (tribe) and hapū (sub-tribe), occupations, political affiliations and interests. Talks, readings and events are also covered.

Most of the collection has been recorded since the 1960s. The collection covers New Zealand society, culture, community, and political history from the late 19th century to the present.

Interviews usually have accompanying documentation, including an abstract – a detailed time-coded index providing quick access to the contents of the recording. A few interviews are fully or partially transcribed. Photographs and other relevant material are sometimes included.

There are Māori oral history projects and recordings of talks, lectures and other events in te reo Māori.

If you'd like to donate any material to the collection, contact the Curator, Oral History and Sound.

To the under Secretary
Land office Brisbane

Sir
Your letter of the 28th inst. to hand referring to my Agricultural Farm <sup>no</sup> 86 Bristol Lane Dorset in which you kindly gave me untill the 7th July in which to pay my rent. I humbly beg to ask you to give me untill the end of August in which to pay the rent as I am greatly put about this while past. As I stated in my other letter I lost what crop I had through the wet weather. And worse than that I got a broken limb past 7 months ago. which left me unable to earn anything

In May last selection applied for time to pay which was granted to

Hocken's archives

From 18th century recipe books to 21st century digital files, the Hocken's archives collection is the largest held by a New Zealand University. The archives tell stories of early Dunedin giving first hand insights into events, people and places significant in Otago's history.

- Search for archives on Hākena.
- See our guide for help with searching Hākena.

Collection strengths:

- Literary and personal research papers
- Otago/Southland Anglican and Methodist Church records
- School records from the Otago Education Board area
- Otago/Dunedin based business records
- Community, club and sporting group records
- Early European settlement documents

Papers collected by Dr Hocken form the foundation of the collection. Many organisations, families and individuals have entrusted their papers, including James K Baxter, Janet Frame, Charles Brasch, Colin McCahon, Michael Cullen, the RSA, the Plunket Society and Hallensteins Ltd. The collections also include important national documents like records of the New Zealand Alpine Club.

Welcome to the Heritage Services on-line catalogues

Introduction

Wiltshire and Swindon History Centre (opens in a new window) offers a 'passport to the past' for anyone interested in finding out more about the fascinating history of Wiltshire and Swindon. These on-line catalogues, some of them being published for the first time in October 2007, act as a kind of 'travel brochure', offering a way of browsing the extensive information we hold. However, like any good brochure, we hope it will also whet your appetite to visit us in person, or, if appropriate, to visit one of the county's libraries, monuments, museums, or sites.

It should be noted that the catalogues are far from complete. Not everything may be catalogued yet, or it may be considered confidential

If you have any query, please contact our experienced, professional staff using the contacts given within the homepages for each catalogue shown below.

NZ Cemeteries Collection

Since 1967 The New Zealand Society of Genealogists has produced cemetery transcriptions for approx. 1400 cemeteries nationwide. Dates range between 1812 through to 2014. Most municipal cemeteries are included, but a significant proportion of this collection includes private cemeteries, Maori Urupa and remote burial locations.

The full collection is held at the NZSG Library at 159 Queens Road Panmure, Auckland. For details on what is available search the Library Catalogue: Search the Library>>>

Transcriptions between 1812 – 2007 are available either on microfiche at most public libraries or in digital format on Ancestry.com. For a listing of what information is available via these two mediums download:

<The New Zealand Cemetery Records - An Index of Microfiche holdings at 2009>

Cemetery websites

There are a significant number of websites devoted to information about Cemeteries both here in New Zealand and elsewhere in the world. Increasingly, we are seeing websites that include photographs of graves. A simple Google search by location will inevitably bring up a positive result.

Council databases are likely to be the most up-to-date. For those who have an idea of burial location, we recommend the website KiwiCelts. This website has a Geneamap which provides the co-ordinates for places of interest to Genealogists and Historians such as Churches, Cemeteries, Museums, and Memorials. It also provides direct links with Council websites and their Cemetery Databases. Search KiwiCelts either by cemetery name or by geographical location: KiwiCelts>>>

As researchers know, we often commence our research without certain knowledge of either family names, or the location in which they lived. In such circumstances this resource comes into its own.

Welcome

The New Zealand History Federation's aim is to foster and stimulate interest in New Zealand history in general, and in the activities and objectives of historical and kindred societies in New Zealand.

Our members are made up of historical societies, museums and trusts, schools and students, relevant interest groups - and of course people with an interest in New Zealand's history.

See 'About Us' for the 'nuts and bolts' of how the Federation works.

And check out what we can do for your historical organisation.

Petane (now Bay View) was the site of an ambush by colonial forces which killed 12 Pai Mārire supporters on 12 October 1866. Today Bay View serves the local farming and market gardening community and is near to popular beaches and picnic areas along the Esk River

Meaning of place name

Named after the view of Hawke Bay it affords. Formerly known as Petane, the Māori form of the biblical 'Bethany'. The name was changed to avoid confusion with Petone. The original Māori name was Kaiarero.

Conclusion

- What's not online is staggering
- You can use the Internet to identify some of this material
- But you still need to either research in person or have someone do it on your behalf
- The more in depth your research, the more you will know your ancestors!
